J. A. Enslow & Co. will sell at half-past 10 o'clock, at their store, grocery sugar.

THE CHEAPEST YET.—The News Job Office is now printing bill-heads in the best style and on fine paper, at $2.50 per thousand. Merchants, think of it!

QUICK PASSAGE.—The British bark Vinco, Halliday, which left this port for Liverpool on the 15th of October, arrived there on the 8th November, making the run in about twenty-seven days.

NEWCOMB'S MINISTRIES.—This excellent troupe have extended to the youthful inmates of the Charleston Orphan Asylum an invitation to be present at their performance this afternoon, at 3 o'clock. We congratulate the little ones upon the fact which is in anticipation, and trust that a full audience will evince the appreciation, on the part of our citizens, of the generosity of the Newcombs.

PERMANENT BALL CLUB.—A club composed mostly of the sons of Erin held their first meeting last night and elected the following officers: Geo. Bourke, president; John Riley, vice-president; J. B. Patrick, secretary; J. A. Begley, treasurer; Chas. Reelston, captain of the first nine; Thos. Riley, captain of the second nine; Barney Lynch, H. Dufus and A. Haight directors; Martin Tierney, steward.

ACCIDENT ON THE SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.—An accident occurred to the down passenger train on the 22nd inst. yesterday, when a few miles below Charleston. It was caused by the breaking of an axle on the forward car. All of the cars but the last were thrown from the track, and the express messenger and mail agent were slightly injured. The accident delayed the train for some hours, and it did not leave the scene of the break-down until half-past 3 P. M.

THE AFFRAY OF TUESDAY LAST.—We have received a communication from Mr. Joseph Sammes, assuring us that it was all a mistake about his having had an encounter with Lafayette Wolfe, on Tuesday. The person whom Wolfe assailed was Mr. Godfrey J. Hyams. Mr. Sammes says that this is the only family of that name in the city, and that no member of it has ever been known to run under any circumstances. The case of Wolfe has been turned over to a magistrate for prosecution.

A MOBILE ESTABLISHMENT.—We invite the attention of the friends of The News in the city and throughout the State to the excellent facilities which our office affords for the prompt execution of all kinds of Book and Job Printing. Fully provided with new type and machinery of the latest and most approved pattern, and having a large and carefully selected stock of cards, envelopes and papers of all qualities, The News Job Office is now prepared to fill orders for every description of plain and ornamental printing in the very best manner, and at rates at least as low as any other establishment in the Southern States. Call at The News building (up-stairs) and examine our scale of prices and specimens of our work.

THE UNITED STATES COURTHOUSE.—The United States authorities have for some time been in possession of the old Charleston Clubhouse, which was secured for the purpose of building a new one. The building, however, has been unable to make any improvements on the building in consequence of an act preventing the General Government from purchasing property in the State but with the consent of the Legislature. A bill has been introduced to give the United States title to the property, and it will doubtless be passed by both houses without delay. The improvements will be commenced as early as possible, and when completed, the United States Courthouse of Charleston will be one of the finest buildings of its class in the Union.

SALES OF REAL ESTATE IN PENDLETON, S. C. At an assignee's sale made in Pendleton, on the 19th instant, a valuable rice plantation, containing 1202 acres and sub-divided in seven tracts, brought as follows: No. 1, 707 acres, $12.00 per acre; No. 2, 156 acres, $12.50 per acre; No. 3, 229 acres, $4.65 per acre; No. 4, 167 acres, $3.00 per acre; No. 5, 171 acres, $2.55 per acre; No. 6, 275 acres, $2.50 per acre; No. 7, 204 acres, $3.81 per acre. Seven acres in the corporate limits of Pendleton brought the aggregate $63, being bought in by the family of the late owner.

A tract of 420 acres on Big Beaverdam Creek, containing 420 acres, brought $9.50 per acre; No. 2, 340 acres, sold for $2.30 per acre, and No. 3, 199 acres, at $2.35 per acre.

A house and lot in Pendleton, at an equity sale, brought $1005, and a brick store and lot brought $1405.

CRIMES.—General Halleck and staff left for Columbia yesterday morning on the South Carolina Railroad.

The coroner's jury in the homicide case will meet to-day at 10 A. M.

A man was arrested in King street on Tuesday for having entered a merchant's house with the intent of robbing the proprietor. He was turned over to Magistrate Mackey for prosecution.

The new Opera-House in Augusta has been opened under the management of Mr. John T. Ford.

U. J. Hyams and L. I. Wolfe, the Broad street corner burglars, have been outed out warrants of arrest with intent to kill.

Mr. Thomas W. Mulholland, a drummer from a New York crockery house, was arrested by the detectives on Monday, and deposited $25 as security for his appearance before the Mayor. Hearing some exaggerated stories concerning the perils of North drummers in Charleston, he thought that his best policy was flight and levanted, leaving the pledge behind him.

Some of the coopers of this city met at the Military Hall on Tuesday evening and organized a union. Officers were elected, and a constitution, the same as that of the longshoremen, adopted.

JOWITT'S CHARLESTON CITY DIRECTORY.—Mr. Thaddeus C. Jowitt has furnished to the public, through the publishing house of Messrs. Walker, Evans & Cogswell, the best city directory and almanac register ever issued in Charleston. It fills a previous public want; for the few works of this description attempted since the war have proved miserable failures, and soon became useless. The present directory has been compiled with great care, and embraces not only a full list of the residents of the city, but a classified register of the business houses, together with a record of the State and city government, societies and associations, railroads, steamship lines, besides a number of valuable miscellaneous information. It will commend itself to every one; a glance, and will be an essential to every business house. The work is embellished by a well executed map of Charleston, from Messrs. J. H. Abrahams and J. H. Seyles, architects of this city. Every street is clearly designated, and a stranger would have no difficulty in locating any spot. In addition to the map, a street directory is given, showing the extent of all the streets and in what direction they run. The typographical execution of the directory is faultless, and the binding superior. Mr. Jowitt has spared no pains to make the book perfect, and promises a revised edition in 1871 if public necessity should demand it, and a copy-right has been secured with a view to that end. Copies of the directory will be delivered to subscribers, and Messrs. Walker, Evans & Cogswell will have a limited number for sale to-morrow. Price $3.

STEWARDS' PROTECTIVE UNION.—This association held a meeting last night at the hall of Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, and was organized by the election of the following officers: Mayor Edward Willis, president; Captain A. O. Stone, vice-president; Henry May, secretary; W. F. Turner, treasurer. Committees were appointed to prepare a constitution and to wait upon the merchants. The attendance was quite large and considerable interest manifested in the meeting. This union is not a political body, and is opposed to the intolerance manifested by the Longshoremen's Union.

ANOTHER DIG AT THE PHOSPHATES.—ASHLEY RIVER to be dredged.—When the utility of the phosphate beds was first made public, efforts were at once set on foot to discover how far the vein extended. From submarine explorations, made by Mr. Angus Smith, a noted Charleston diver, together with close investigation of the main and islands of the sea-coast, it was ascertained that the bed of marl or phosphate extended in a semi-circular shape from a short distance up the Cooper and Ashley Rivers to Port Royal, where it was iron ore in the sea or deteriorated by being mixed with iron ore. The same deterioration was noticed in other sections, and a careful analysis showed that the best quality of phosphate, containing from sixty to eighty per cent. of lime, were found near Charleston, along the banks of the Ashley River. From his submarine explorations, the idea was suggested to Mr. Smith that a large amount of phosphate could be taken from the bed of the river.

Having been employed as a wrecker to raise the vessels sunk in the harbor during the war, he experimented on the machinery used for that purpose, and has succeeded in producing a powerful dredge that will raise the phosphates from a depth of seventeen feet. Nothing was known of the enterprise until its completion. An old pile-driver was obtained and fitted up with double engine of twenty-seven horse-power. A heavy braced scaffolding in the bow sustains the machinery, which is worked somewhat like the dredge boats used in the harbor, but having, instead of a bucket, a basket rack, which grapples with the rock and brings it to the surface. A truck passing under the rake receives the load, which is then transferred by slides into the lighters. As a test of the efficacy of the new dredge, a monkey-wrench was thrown overboard and recovered on the first attempt. The teeth of the rake are steel-pointed, and grip tighter as they are raised to the surface. The machine was invented and patented by Mr. Angus Smith, and has received the encomiums of all mechanics who have inspected it. The bed of the Ashley is composed of phosphate rock, the breaking of which into lumps or nodules that can be raised at a handsome profit to the projector of the enterprise, and an ultimate benefit to the navigation of the river.

THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—AN INTERESTING OCCASION.—A goodly company of our citizens assembled last evening, at the invitation of the architect, Mr. Devereux, in our new and beautiful theatre, which was lighted up for the first time, and the spacious stage of which was the scene of a beautiful collation, given to the employees of Mr. Devereux, in honor of the completion of their work. After a little time spent in admiring the proportions and embellishments of the edifice, all present fell to at the tables and discussed the good things provided with hearty zest.

After the supper a committee of ten workmen, (five white and five colored in the employ of Mr. J. H. Devereux, came forward, and through Mr. D. A. J. Sullivan, the superintendent of the carpenters, presented Mr. Devereux with a handsome gold-headed ebony cane. The head, which was massive gold, was beautifully chased and ornamented, and was inscribed, "Presented to John H. Devereux, by his employers, as a token of their esteem and regard, Charleston, S. C., November 24th, 1869." On the sides, or panels of the head, were engraved a palmetto tree, a T, square and radius, (architect tools), and a plastering trowel. The engraving was done by Fischer, and is a splendid piece of workmanship. In accepting the gift, Mr. Devereux said:

"My friends—in accepting this beautiful cane, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the thought that gave birth to the gift. I little dreamed when I was planning this pleasure for you, and thinking of the happiness it would confer on me, that you would give me such a present, when strikes are the order of the day. We are all by the newspapers how the employees and employers are quarreling and fighting on each other; but you can be relied on; you are my gold-headed cane; with you in my hands I can conquer even a war. I am glad to see that you have taken my plan of action, and to your great honor be it said that though you had it in your power to ruin me, you have chosen to give me this cane, which is my cause. What a spectacle was that for these gentlemen, my friends and patrons, and for the citizens of Charleston, occurring at a time when the results were likely to be much more serious than the baneful influence of disaffected employees, to see us vying with each other in mutual effort for our happiness. It was said of us that we would fail in our undertaking, both as to execution and time. What said our employer Mr. Chadwick? 'Unsurpassed by anything North or South.' My opinion, gentlemen, for I thought that this time I was caught, that I had met more than my match, and had undertaken more than my strength could carry. But your skillful and willing hands cheered on the work, and made them hide their heads from shame. My noble success I owe to my faithful workmen, and I take pleasure in telling you that through the enterprise of a merchant now present, we will march from here to the erection of a cotton shed two hundred feet long, and I shall not be forced to discharge any of you for the want of something to do."

"Turning to Mr. Chadwick, Mr. Devereux said: 'You are the man who have been turning over the keys of your building, and here let me express the gratitude I owe you for your great kindness and generosity.' The keys presented to Mr. Chadwick were not the ponderous instruments that kept the bolts and bars in proper order, but two miniature gold-cross keys on a rossette of green satin, and pendant from a gold chain. Mr. Chadwick, on receiving these tokens of the completion of the building, replied, 'that he was glad that it had been in his power to give to the citizens of Charleston what appeared to him to be one of the greatest wants of a great metropolis—a proper place of public amusement. His remarks were very happy throughout, and elicited frequent applause. (We regret that the lateness of the hour prevents a full report.) Three cheers were then given for Mr. Chadwick, and that for the rest of our literature resembles as none else could. Other calls were made and speeches delivered, and it was not until a late hour that the Academy of Music took the appearance of a 'banquet hall deserted.'"

AN ARTICLE OF TRUTH.—"Brown's Bronchial Trochees" are the most popular article in this country or Europe for throat diseases and coughs, and this popularity is based upon real merit, which cannot be said of many other preparations in the market which are really but weak imitations of the genuine Trochees.
